

Museum Station Easier Access Project

Overnight work to reduce construction hoarding on Queens Park, south of Bloor Street West

Timeline:

As early as Tuesday, May 12, 2026 at 10 p.m., nightly work will be taking place to reduce construction hoarding and to conduct line painting on Queens Park, south of Bloor Street West until Sunday, May 17, 2026 (weather pending).

 Content/timeline accurate at the time of printing. Pending weather, unforeseen site conditions, and events.*

What we are doing and why:

The TTC's Easier Access Program is making subway stations accessible. Major structural upgrades are underway at the concourse level to accommodate two new elevators, a new staircase, and an escalator—enhancing accessibility and passenger flow. Elevators are scheduled to be in service in Q3 2026*.

This work is necessary as part of the Museum Station Easier Access Project.

What to expect:

- Work will typically take place Monday to Friday between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Some work on weekends between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. may be required. For safety, overnight work may be required.
- Line painting will continue overnight on either Wednesday, May 13 or Thursday, May 14 (weather depending).
- Traffic barrels will be in place to separate lanes after hoarding is removed and until lines have been painted.
- All lanes of traffic (2 vehicle lanes and 1 bike lane in each direction) north of Queens Park Crescent will be opened following this work, except for the section between the northeast & southeast staircases (including the southeast staircase). This section will remain fenced off.
- The sidewalk on the east side will be re-opened.
- The hoarding on the west side of Queens Park and the pedestrian detour on the west side will remain (no impact to road traffic) and will be removed by the end of Q3.
- Efforts will be made to keep disruption associated with noise and dust to a minimum
- Access to subway service will be maintained throughout construction.

Thank you for your patience as we continue to make Toronto Transit accessible.
