

Wilson Station Rehabilitation on Allen Road

Allen Road work progresses to the final stages of construction

Timeline: On-going until the end of April*

*Content / timeline is accurate at the time of this communication and is subject to changes due to weather and unforeseen circumstances.

Key Update

Weather permitting, there will be instances of nightly lane closures in April to accommodate paving and final pavement markings. At least two lanes of traffic will remain open for the duration of construction and road reconfiguration. Once completed, all northbound lanes on Allen Road will be open.

Project Overview

Constructed in the mid-1960s (and last modified in 1976), the Wilson Station's mezzanine bridge and bus underpass, which are part of the Allen Road infrastructure, are deteriorating. TTC is undertaking a vital state-of-good-repair project to rehabilitate these two structures. Completing the work will ensure TTC maintains the long-term safety of the bridge and our transit operations and avoids significant long-term risks/costs from deferred maintenance.
